Homeschool enrollment across member communities

20 member districts | 18 county markets | Prepared November 4, 2026

This report brings together the public data used in TIP's Homeschool Explorer: county market shares, estimated student enrollment, registered home school counts, the latest three annual snapshots, Opportunity Scholarship disbursements, district context, and source links.

The county education landscape

County geography | Darker blue = higher 2024-25 homeschool share | Gray = other NC counties

Key findings. Rowan (14.6%), Rockingham (14.1%), Davidson (12.8%), Randolph (11.7%), and Warren (10.8%) have the highest 2024-25 homeschool shares among the county markets reviewed. Durham has the lowest, at 3.5%. [1, 2]

The largest 2025-26 homeschool populations in this group are Wake (15,642), Mecklenburg (11,746), Forsyth (5,989), Guilford (4,818), and Cumberland (4,331). Share and student counts answer different planning questions. [3]

Scope: County data provides context for member districts. It is not an exact count within district attendance boundaries. The map shows county shares; individual registration locations are not available in the dataset used here.

Opportunity Scholarships: NCSEAA reports $589.0 million disbursed statewide in 2025-26, compared with $432.2 million in 2024-25 and $185.6 million in 2023-24. See the funding section and county profiles. [12-14]

 Shared county: County totals include areas served by other districts. Orange and Davidson each appear twice; do not add member rows together. * Edgecombe: Boundary changes and legacy-student arrangements limit historical district comparisons. [7]

Reading the share: Estimated homeschool students divided by enrollment across district-public, charter, private, and homeschool sectors in the same county compilation and year.

How these counts were checked

The myFutureNC / Carolina Demography county file supplies the total and sector proportions. Counts were reconstructed by multiplying each proportion by the county total and rounding to the nearest whole student. All four sectors sum to the total, and every homeschool count matches DNPE's published 2024-25 county estimate. A missing charter proportion was treated as zero only where the remaining sectors exhaust the total. [1, 2]

Public enrollment measures differ across sources. The selected compilation has a statewide total of 1,816,528 and homeschool share of 9.1%. Reports using funded average daily membership can produce different totals. Preserve the same measure when updating comparisons.

INTERPRETATION AND PLANNING

What the data supports

County figures and district boundaries

Asheboro, Cabarrus, Chapel Hill-Carrboro, Lexington, Orange, Rowan-Salisbury, Sampson, and Thomasville require shared-county interpretation. Their profiles explain the overlap. Edgecombe's 2024-25 boundary transition creates an additional historical-comparison issue. [7]

Estimates, ages, and movement between schools

DNPE homeschool enrollment is estimated from self-reported information. Its age tables list ages 6-17; public and private totals have different age coverage, especially kindergarten. Cross-county attendance also affects comparisons. These are administrative education-market indicators, not a census of county-resident children or a measure of district withdrawals. [2, 3]

NCHE reports a registry cleanup that may affect 2025-26 numbers; the impact by county has not been quantified. DNPE explains that an inactive tag is a recordkeeping status and does not itself mean a school has closed. A decrease in estimated homeschool students does not show that those students entered district schools. [8, 9]

Public registration directory

NC DNPE Home School Administrator Search

Leave Last Name blank, select a county, and choose Find Administrator to view open home schools. The live search tested shows administrator name, school name, and county. A registration counts a school, not a student; results need not match annual-report snapshot counts. Listing also does not establish compliance with all state requirements. [5]

Registration-location mapping: pending geographic data

The Tableau reference includes individual location and demographic detail from a historical roster. The current public search reviewed does not expose the address and student-detail fields needed to reproduce that view. No locations, ages, gender, school types, or individual student counts have been inferred. The dashboard currently maps county shares. [5, 10]

A geographic-data request has been prepared for DNPE, but has not been sent. It asks for existing registration counts by ZIP code, census tract, or district of residence, with snapshot dates and coverage definitions. Geographic aggregates could support a zoomable registration-concentration map without displaying private family homes.

Questions for member discussion

Pair county comparisons with district withdrawal reasons, re-enrollment patterns, and family feedback. Districts sharing a county could jointly request aggregate district-of-residence counts. Use both share and population size when discussing enrollment planning and family engagement.

OPPORTUNITY SCHOLARSHIPS | NCSEAA

Public funding for private education

Final year-end disbursements for the latest three completed school years. These are payments made, rather than maximum award offers or program appropriations. Opportunity Scholarships only; ESA+ is excluded. [12-14]

School year	Statewide recipients	Statewide disbursements
2023-24	32,549	$185,554,831

2025-26	106,867	$589,039,285

Funding on behalf of county residents

The table follows students' county of residence, not the location of the private school. Amounts cannot be assigned to an individual member district or interpreted as district budget losses. Shared-county figures must not be summed across duplicate district views.

NCSEAA counts recipients funded in either or both semesters. County dollars follow residents attending schools that may be outside their county. Private-school recipient totals below follow the school itself, so the two geographic measures differ.

Reconciliation note

For each annual export, county funds sum to the statewide amount and school funds sum to the same statewide amount. The 2024-25 source includes $1,680 with no school name. That entry is retained as “Unspecified in source” in the dashboard, rather than omitted. These totals do not measure all public funding or all private-school revenue.
